

➤ NatWest and RBS introduce 'virtual queues' at bank branches to cut waiting times

➤ Advice for residents to winter-proof their homes in bid to avoid unwanted costs

➤ DWP issues important Christmas payment update for people on all benefits

➤ State Pension payment dates over Christmas and New Year confirmed by DWP

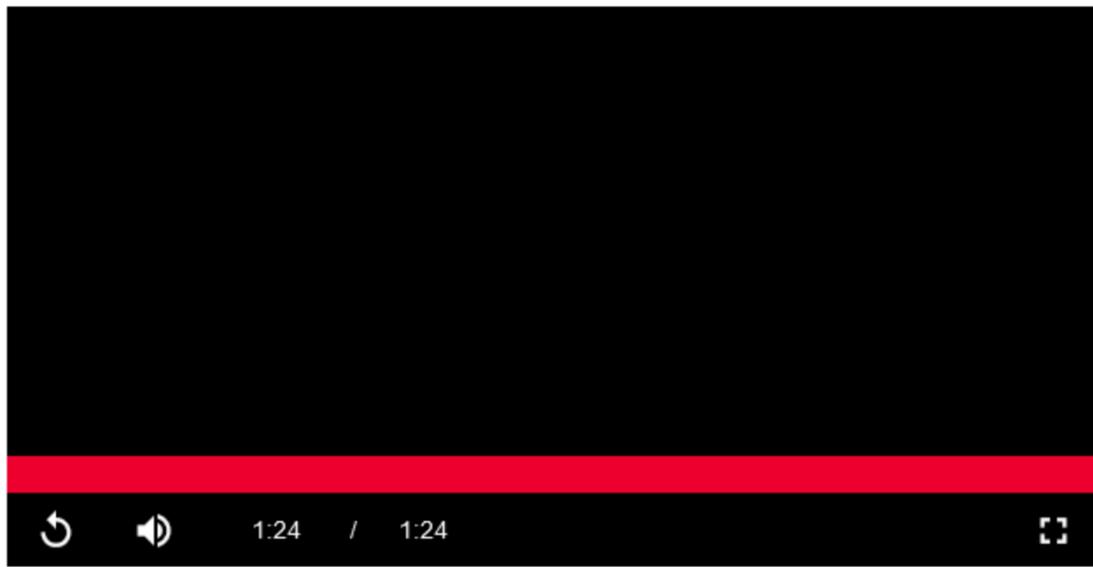

➤ State Pension payments to rise next year but half a million people won't get it

R Lifestyle ▶ Money ▶ Pensions

DWP set to make pension statements more 'user-friendly' and include size of the saver's cash pot

The two-page annual statements will take on a more simplified format under the DWP's new proposals

▶ See news near you   In YourArea

Get the stories that matter to you sent straight to your inbox with our daily newsletter.

When you subscribe we will use the information you provide to send you these newsletters. Sometimes they'll include recommendations for other related newsletters or services we offer. Our Privacy Notice explains more about how we use your data, and your rights. You can unsubscribe at any time.

Pension statements are set to become more "user-friendly" with schemes being

ADVERTISEMENT

Keep well this winter

All together >

138332566989

MOST READ

1

required to boil information down in a simplified way under UK Government plans.

The two-page annual statements will take on a more consistent format, highlighting key information such as the size of the saver's pension pot and a forecast of their retirement.

The proposals by the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) will require pension schemes to structure statements so they answer key questions.

These include:

- How much money is in your pension pot?
- How much money could you have when you retire?
- What could you do to give yourself more money in retirement?

Simplified statements will include a line on costs and charges and a clear signpost for more detailed information elsewhere.

The initial focus will be on defined contribution (DC) schemes used for automatic enrolment, with a view to later improving consistency across all schemes.

R RELATED ARTICLES

▶ Get the latest Scottish news sent straight to your inbox with our newsletters

▶ Martin Lewis urges people to check if they're eligible for £140 off their winter fuel bills

Baroness Ros Altmann, a former pensions minister, said: "This is a vital first step in making pensions more user-friendly."

She added: "Many providers seem afraid of not including the correct information, which leads them to produce multi-page statements which are never read or understood by customers for whom they are supposed to be informing."

"Pension providers need to send communications to suit customers, not themselves or intermediaries who of course understand all the baffling terminology."

Martin Lewis issues Winter Fuel Payment warning after DWP sends out 60,000 incorrect letters

- 2  PS5 bundles up for grabs in GAME's online Easter Egg hunt - and it's on today
- 3  Attendance Allowance myths that stop people of State Pension age claiming support worth up to £356 a month
- 4  NatWest and RBS introduce 'virtual queues' at bank branches to cut waiting times
- 5  DWP Christmas bonus payment coming this month for people on Universal Credit, PIP and other benefits

RECOMMENDED

Martin Lewis explains how to stop debt collectors harassing you for 30 days

Martin Lewis issues Winter Fuel Payment warning as 60,000 incorrect letters sent

Designer bags are half price at top Scottish brand Strathberry

The proposals include a forecast of a saver's retirement (Image: Getty)

Minister for Pensions and Financial Inclusion, Guy Opperman, said: "For too long pensions have been shrouded in complexity and technical jargon, limiting people's understanding of their savings and hampering their retirement planning.

"Simple statements will usher in a new standard for how schemes communicate with their members - vastly improving people's understanding and engagement with their pensions."

Industry experts raised concerns that "shoehorning" information into the new statements could risk leaving important information out.

ADVERTISEMENT

138332566986

R LATEST PENSIONS NEWS

- DWP Christmas bonus payment is coming
- Not everyone will get State Pension rise
- How to boost your State Pension
- Women urged to check their pension

Morrisons customers can have Christmas shopping delivered in 30 minutes

Mum in tears after husband 'ruins' 40th birthday in 'colossal failure'

Sponsored Links by Taboola

People Born 1951 - 1979 Claim This Benefit In December

Reassured

Most Windows Owners Don't Know This Security Tip (Do This Today)

Experts In Saving

Pensioners in New Barnet Are Snapping Up These New Bluetooth Hearing Aids

Compare Hearing Aids

Seniors Aged 50-79 Are In For A Treat This December

The Insurance Expert

Helen Morrissey, pension specialist at Royal London, said: "We are always looking at how we can better communicate with customers - in 2017 we updated our statements after undertaking extensive customer research and so we feel taking a standardised approach is not the way to go.

"Shoehorning the statement into two pages risks leaving out important information on costs and charges.

"We would also want providers to have the flexibility to include important messages such as updating beneficiaries and where to go to get more information. We believe adopting a principles-based approach would be more beneficial."

R LATEST MONEY NEWS

ADVERTISEMENT

For tips and advice on how to keep well,
please visit
nhs.uk/live-well